

PLAN TWO SECURITY PACTS

U.S. To Supply Surplus Arms To Pact Nations

Draft Of North Atlantic
Pact At Present Contains
This Provision

OTHER AID WILL BE GIVEN BY U. S.

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The North Atlantic Pact as drafted today will permit the United States to make surplus arms available to the other signatory countries as soon as it is ratified.

Further legislation will be submitted to congress immediately after ratification to allow the United States to furnish other military equipment on a lend-lease basis to bring the European powers to effective strength.

At first the United States will supply only rifles and machine guns and such lesser equipment. Tanks and heavy guns will have to await authorization of congress and an appropriation.

To Put Armies On Real Basis
Once the pact comes into force, the immediate objective of the United States will be to get the armies of the participating powers on an effective basis as soon as possible.

This alone is expected to provide a sense of security essential to Europe's full recovery.

The British also have indicated in informal talks that, as part of the military assistance program, United States technicians might be provided for the building of airbases abroad.

Estimates on the cost of the military aid program run from two million to five million dollars. However, the European participants also will be obliged to provide as much mutual self-help as possible, as has been done under the Marshall plan.

Over Number Of Years
The United States commitment also is expected to be spread over a number of years with the military production program integrated into production for American needs.

Interest in the alliance appeared to be spreading following optimistic weekend developments.

In London, Greek Foreign Minister Constantine Tsaldaris conferred with British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin on the possibility of creating a Mediterranean alliance, presumably to include Turkey, Israel and Middle East Arab states.

In Norway, Foreign Minister Halvard Lange, following an overwhelming vote of support, prepared to bring his country into the North Atlantic pact. He appeared determined to abandon the (Continued on Page Two)

No winter of many years has produced so much mud, due to the lack of continued freezing weather.

About a week from today and March will come in "like a lion or lamb." Most folks are of the opinion that the community will not get much severe winter weather before spring arrives.

Today is being observed in the city and county as Washington's birthday anniversary. Numerous institutions are closed for the day, and in schools programs appropriate to the day are being presented.

Several weeks ago the groundhog forecast six weeks of winter weather. The groundhog sort of lost out with the populace as a weather forecaster this year at least.

Hoover Commission Makes Sixth Report

By FELIX COTTEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The Hoover commission recommended today a complete reorganization of the Agriculture department and estimated that it would save a minimum of eighty million dollars a year.

The group, in its sixth report to Congress on remodeling the government, proposed that all government land agencies be transferred to the Agriculture department and that all activities relating to water resources be placed in the Interior department.

The commission headed by former President Hoover, said "there has been a long and wasteful con-

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Feb. 22.—Tass announced today that American author Dr. Anna Louise Strong, who was accused of spying against the Soviet Union, was deported from Russia yesterday.

Dr. Strong, 64, was arrested by security police in Moscow a week ago yesterday. The Soviet news agency announcement did not indicate how she left Russia. It said merely that she was "deported Monday from the limits of the USSR."

The official announcement of Dr. Strong's arrest a week ago stated that she had indulged in "espionage and subversive activities directed against the Soviet Union."

She was described as "a notorious intelligence agent who made her way into the USSR through the negligence of certain foreign relations officials."

Washington, Feb. 22.—(INS)—A spokesman said the state department had no information on the present whereabouts of Anna Louise Strong, American authoress deported from Russia.

Forrestal To Ask Military Adviser Post Be Permanent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Defense Secretary Forrestal has asked President Truman to make permanent the job of chief military adviser to the President and secretary of defense, a post now held by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

It was learned that a bill creating the permanent job of a super chief of staff, or, as Eisenhower is now called, military consultant to the President and defense secretary, has been submitted to the President and the Bureau of the Budget.

The bill is one of several sent by the Defense department to the President for his consideration and possible forwarding to Congress in a forthcoming message on unification reorganization. It is doubtful, however, if any recommendations will be made before the Hoover commission report on reorganization of the defense setup is complete.

This will be the second directory issued since World War II due to the difficulty in obtaining materials for publication.

Further Delay On Taft-Hartley Law Repeal Hearings

House Labor Committee
Seeks To Complete Minimum Wage Bill
Action

SENATE HEARINGS
NEAR COMPLETION

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—House Labor Committee consideration of repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act has been delayed for at least another week or two by orders of the House leadership.

Committee members disclosed today that House leaders have instructed the group not to take up any new legislation until it finishes with the minimum wage bill.

They said it may take another week or two, perhaps longer, to dispose of the measure to boost the minimum wage from 40 cents to 75 cents an hour. One member said:

"The committee has been told by the leadership to hold up on everything else until that's done."

He said these orders precluded any action for the time being on a resolution urging immediate repeal of the Taft-Hartley law and re-enactment of the Wagner Act with consideration of amendments later.

A subcommittee headed by Rep. Kelley (D) Pa., approved the resolution more than two weeks ago but the full committee is deeply entangled with the minimum wage bill.

Meantime, the Senate Labor Committee has only two more days of hearings on the Thomas Bill to wipe out Taft-Hartley and restore a modified Wagner Act.

Water Trip Of Huge Cyclotron Coils Is Delayed By Strike

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 22.—(INS)—The seven-month trip by water of two huge 90-ton coils for the new Carnegie Tech cyclotron was delayed today at Huntington, W. Va., by a strike of river boat crews.

Scheduled to arrive in Pittsburgh by today, the 20-foot wide coils have been tied up at Huntington since last Wednesday by a walkout of CIO Maritime Mates and Pilots of the Union Barge Lines.

The 3000-mile trip by water of the massive coils from Brooklyn was made necessary after eastern Pennsylvania roads were closed to trucks scheduled to haul them when it was determined the trip would be too hazardous because of icy roads.

The coils were sent down the Atlantic coast, through the Gulf of Mexico and up the Mississippi river.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(INS)—The nation's capital dedicated itself today to a solemn holiday observance of the 217th anniversary of the birthday of George Washington, for whom it was named.

Many government workers and school children joined tourists and government officials in the day-long patriotic and religious ceremonies which were scheduled to mark the event.

The House of Representatives assembled reverently to hear eulogies of the first president. Later in the day many members of Congress will place memorial wreaths on Washington's tomb at Mount Vernon.

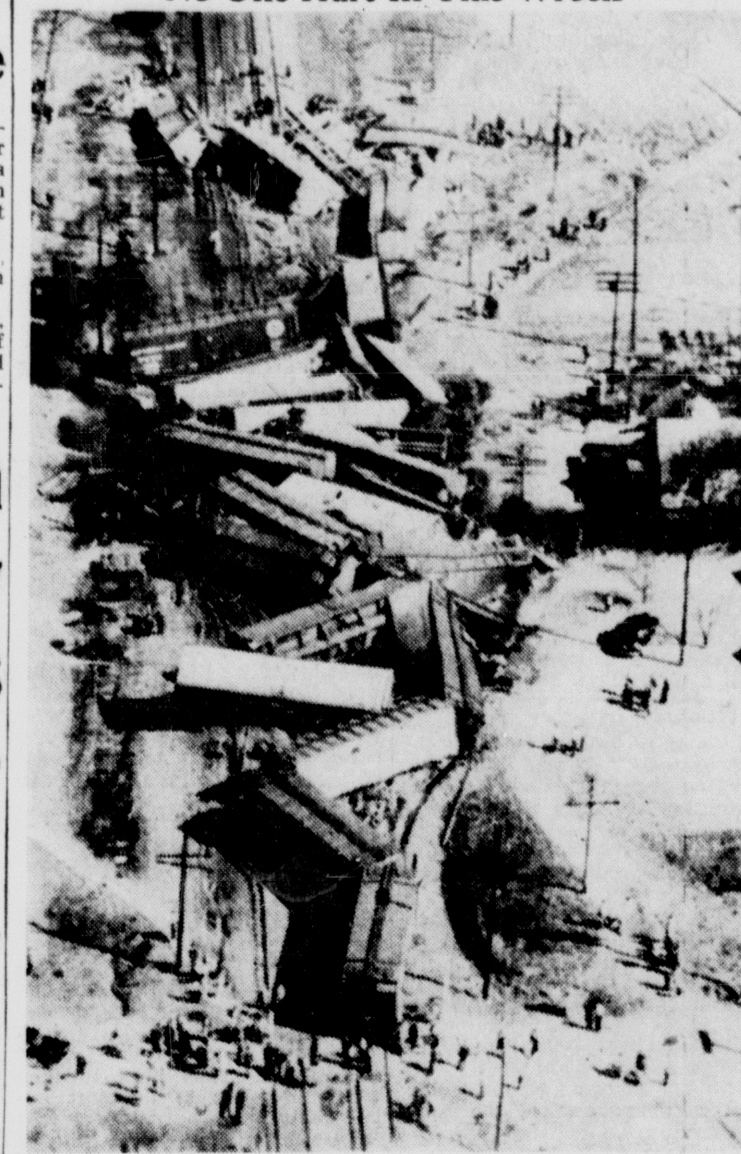

The historic city of Alexandria, Va., which timed the beginning of its bicentennial celebration to coincide with Washington's birthday, will hold dual ceremonies at which Gov. William Tuck will be the ranking guest.

Wreath Is Placed
Shortly before noon Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, military aide to President Truman, represented the chief executive in placing a wreath on the quiet, secluded tomb of the nation's first president.

At the same ceremony Lyall Beggs of Madison, Wis., commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, placed a companion cross of Malta wreath next to the president's offering. Similar services will be held by the George Washington Post of the American Legion.

Mild Weather Develops Over Most Of Nation

(By International News Service)

Mild weather covered the major portion of the nation today and the weather bureau in Chicago said floods might develop in the blizzard-stricken mountain and plain states.

Continued high temperatures might cause ice-choked streams to overflow their banks as the snows melted in some regions, it was reported.

Mercury readings during the past 24 hours ranged from a high of 86 degrees reported at Ocala and Tampa in Florida to four below zero at Pembina, N. D.

Light rains were falling over upper Ohio and the southern Great Lakes region but Kenny said there was little possibility of its freezing.

A narrow snow belt extended across the northern part of lower Michigan.

Continued high temperatures were expected in the western plains states and Kenny reported no cold was in the offing.

Gen. Smith Labels Charges As Absurd

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, U.S. Ambassador to Moscow, today labeled "ridiculous and absurd" charges that he and other American officials engaged in "espionage, black-marketing, intrigue and intimidation" in Russia.

The ambassador said: "I am certain that the Kremlin itself would absolve me of any charge of espionage."

Smith replied in detail to the charges made by Annabelle Bucar, a former employee of the embassy, now married to a Russian and who published a sensational Russian-language book entitled "The Truth About American Diplomats."

He insisted that the free territory be maintained and submitted a motion offering the appointment of Swiss Colonel Hermann Flueckiger to the governorship of Trieste. Such a step would obliterate the free territory.

Western Powers Push Plans For Security Pacts

Move Ahead With Projected Alliances Despite Russian Criticism

NORWAY CASTING
LOT WITH WEST

By THOMAS C. WATSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Feb. 22.—The western powers ignored renewed Russian criticism today and moved ahead with plans for two regional security pacts.

The two projected alliance—the North Atlantic grouping and a possible Mediterranean bloc—were both denounced by an official USSR spokesman as "aimed against Russia and the peoples' democracies."

The latest Soviet blast was made by Marshal L. Govorov, who charged that international tension created by the west's formation of these groups was forcing Russia to increase its military power.

Even as Govorov spoke, these key developments took place regarding European security pacts:

Norway Joining
1—Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard M. Lange announced in Oslo that Norway has decided to cast her lot with the western powers and break away from traditional Scandinavian neutrality. The dominant labor party is backing Lange's stand, and the Norwegian parliament is expected to approve the historic change of policy tomorrow.

2—British Foreign Secretary Bevin and Greek Foreign Minister Constantine Tsaldaris began talks on the creation of a Mediterranean pact similar to the North Atlantic group. Last week Turkish Foreign Minister Necmeddin Sadak conferred with Bevin on the same topic.

Present plans—although still dimly outlined—envision Greece, Turkey, Israel and the Arab states as members of such an alliance.

Not Committed
3—British Minister of State Hector McNeill announced yesterday in the House of Commons that none of the governments participating in the Atlantic Pact negotiations have as yet committed themselves to any military obligations.

His statement was aimed at re-

Midwest Farm Women Leave To Visit In Europe

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Thirty midwest farm women will leave New York by plane this afternoon for a 30-day visit with the "nobles and nobodies" of Europe.

The women, all from Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota and Wisconsin, will visit nine countries in which they will spend considerable time in rural communities.

Lawrence Youngman of Omaha, their tour manager, said the women will get "first hand information on recovery, education, living and agriculture problems, by living in farm homes abroad. The women will visit nobles and nobodies."

Lawrence said the women will be received in London by Lady Astor, and that an audience with Pope Pius XII has been arranged.

Transit Strike Officially Ends

Workers Vote Five To One To Accept Agreement Ending Transportation Tie-Up

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Employees of the Philadelphia Transportation Company showed their willingness to be back on the job today officially ratifying the settlement of their 10-day strike by a margin of more than five to one.

More than 7000 of the 11,000 members of the CIO Transport Workers cast secret ballots yesterday and with only a few votes remaining to be tabulated this morning, the count was:

For accepting the contract, 5586.

For resuming the strike, 1023.

Their were 327 challenged votes.

Pact Is Ratified

The secret ballot on ratification of the pact whereby the workers were granted an eight-cent hourly pay boost was taken after the city's transit facilities once more began to move.

Normal operations were resumed Sunday night following a series of turbulent meetings in which the membership voted to return to work with the condition that a secret ballot on the contract's acceptance be taken.

Only two installations out of the 52 locations where votes were received yesterday voted down the new contract and called for resuming the strike.

The transportation paralysis inconvenienced some 3,200,000 daily riders on PTC vehicles and cost the city's business interests more than 80 million dollars, according to Chamber of Commerce figures.

In an interesting talk, illustrated with slide pictures, Mahoning-Shenango Engineers Society heard Dr. Mario Scapella of the associated calco chemical division of the American Cyanamid Research Department, at the Castleton Hotel on Monday evening. Plans have been made for a ladies night meeting to take place in March with the April meeting to be in the form of a plant party in the Zelienople area.

It said it believed "logic and public policy require that major law agencies be grouped in the Department of Agriculture." This would not include minerals.

Stronger At Top

In line with its usual policy of proposing a stronger force at the top, the commission suggested that the positions of undersecretary and two assistant secretaries be retained and that one assistant secretary and an administrative assistant secretary be added.

The group said an estimated 44 million dollars could be saved each year in operating expenses and an additional 36 million on government credit operations.

The commission listed 16 recommendations for revamping the Agriculture department in the interest of economy and more efficient operation.

It insisted that the department should be overhauled "at state, county and farmer levels." It contended that considerable overlapping and duplication of functions had developed and said:

Farmers Are Confused

"Farmers are confused and irritated, as climaxed in one Missouri county, where a farmer recently received from five different agencies varying advice on the application of fertilizer on his farm."

Soil conservation payments to farmers, the group insisted, "should be restricted to those which will bring about the adoption of complete and balanced conservation programs" on each farm.

The commission also declared that agricultural adjustment programs with respect to commodities and commodity groups "should be operated on a stand-by, rather than a continuing, basis."

The present set-up was described by the commission as "a loose confederation of independent bureaus and agencies." It said the many field organizations that have sprung up with the rapid growth of the department have confused farmers and multiplied their difficulties in dealing with the government.

Ellwood City Man Found Dead

Fire Chief Chester V. Rodgers Discovers Lifeless Body Of Friend Today

Clarence E. Eckles, aged 59 years, of 606 Lawrence avenue Ellwood City, was discovered in the bathroom of the Eckles apartment at 10 o'clock this morning. Mr. Eckles had taken his own life, using a 2-gauge single-barreled shotgun, Coroner Charles E. Allen reported.

Mr. Eckles, who has been retired from his job as a piercing bar operator at the Shelby Tube plant for the past year, because of ill health, had purchased the gun from an Ellwood City store this morning, having them deliver the gun with a box of shells to his home. Later, they feared that he might use it to take his own life, and called Fire Chief Chester V. Rodgers, a close friend of the deceased, who went immediately to the Eckles apartment. Mr. Rodgers was unable to get in, and went upstairs to the laundry of the building, where the Eckles family resided, where he called Mrs. Eckles. The two went to the apartment, and on opening the door, found Mr. Eckles on the bathroom floor. He had shot himself through the head.

He had just returned from the Ellwood City hospital a few days ago, where he had been undergoing treatment, and had been much depressed since that time, it was stated.

He was born in Perry township, Lawrence county, April 21, 1889, the son of James Scott and Annetta Marshall Eckles, and had spent his entire lifetime in the Ellwood City district.

The body was removed to the Patton funeral home to be prepared for burial. Announcement of the funeral arrangements will be made later.

Cain named them as Jack Gorrie, former "assistant governor"; John Davis and Jack Ballou, both ex-state officials. Wallgren earlier testified he had two associates gathering information for him on the board's activities but did not mention that they were on the payroll.

Cain's general complaint was that Wallgren's record as governor indicated he never had been successful in keeping Communist or pro-Communists from his staffs. He said that during Wallgren's term as governor "the entire state administration came under the control of persons whose first allegiance is to the Kremlin."

Nomination Of Wallgren Will Be Given Airing

By WILLIAM THEIS (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—GOP senators indicated today they will not be satisfied with a "general" denial by ex-Gov. Mon C. Wallgren of charges that alleged Communist influences in his Washington state administration make him unfit for a top security post.

The senate armed services agreed to hear on Thursday President Truman's close friend, picked to head the National Security Resources Board. He will be asked to answer allegations on the Communist issue raised by Sen. Cain (R) Wash., who says Wallgren lacks qualifications for the $14,000-a-year job.

Democratic leaders as yet have not become concerned about the Wallgren nomination turning into another "Pauley case" — Mr. Truman's most embarrassing nomination problem to date. Facing strong opposition in the senate, the president finally withdrew his nomination of Edwin C. Pauley as navy secretary.

They find some comfort in the fact that Wallgren, as a former senator, will receive gentler treatment than an outsider, and also that his accuser, Cain, is a freshman member of the senate from the same state.

Want Specific Answers

But on the Republican side of the armed services committee, it was made plain the minority members will want specific answers rather than generalizations to Cain's charges that:

1. John Caughlin, whom Wallgren appointed to the Washington State Social Security Board, was identified by 11 witnesses in a state un-American activities probe as "an important member of the Communist party."

2. Wallgren already has on the security resources board payroll three former Washington associates, each receiving $50 a day as consultants. Cain named them as Jack Gorrie, former "assistant governor"; John Davis and Jack Ballou, both ex-state officials. Wallgren earlier testified he had two associates gathering information for him on the board's activities but did not mention that they were on the payroll.

CHURCH DAMAGED

Boys were alleged to have damaged Primitive Methodist church, South Mill street last night, according to a complaint made to police.

Bathroom and kitchen ceiling and door fixtures that have metal pull chains should have insulating links inserted in the chain so that if someone grab's them with a wet pay there won't be such a strong possibility of a bad shock.

Janitor's Display Will Be Missing In New City Hall

One of the features that will be missing from the new municipal building, being built at Grant and North Jefferson streets, will be Chief Janitor William Piffant's Art Gallery, located in his workroom, second floor, of the city building, at East and East Washington street.

The Art Gallery consists of scores of calendars, some old, some new, but it will be impossible to remove them from the wall, without damaging them.

The date portion has been removed from the calendars, and only scenes are posted on the east wall of the workroom. The "art gallery" took years to form.

In the gallery, are fishing and hunting scenes, also the likeness of beautiful girls, most of which are so designed to display the girls' pulchritudean forms.

There are photos of girls astride horses, leading dogs, the Philosopher, Bathing Beauties, and what not in the collection, but when "Moving Day" comes, the Art Gallery will be missing from the new structure.

CHANGING PRICES

It seems that the tendency of everything today, is downward. We understand that the Country has had a long spell of everything going up, as well as being hard to get work done, which makes a tendency for everything to be high.

We are glad to say that this has changed, and we expect, as far as we are concerned to start the ball rolling, and start the prices down, so that people can afford them.

With the enormous stock we have on hand, we will be able to do this, and as we are able to buy our merchandise in large quantities, it will help us to continue to do so.

Don't be afraid to call us, when in need of professional services.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Greece has joined Turkey in urging early conclusion of a Mediterranean defense alliance to operate in conjunction with the north Atlantic security pact and a bitter new Soviet diplomatic struggle against any such arrangement is inevitable.

The Greco-Turkish movement perhaps is a logical one. But there are many indications that it was not foreseen at all when the sponsors of the western European union started to broaden their defense basis by drafting the Atlantic pact.

Thus far at least the United States has not given any great encouragement to the plan although the British government seems to have expressed interest in it.

One of Factors

One of the principal factors in the matter is that of justification. The spokesmen for Greece and Turkey say that such a regional security agreement is in entire conformity with the League of Nations charter. They cite article 51, which extends to member nations the right to work out regional arrangements within the general framework of the charter—but only when peace and security in the area in question actually is menaced.

Greece might be able to make a case on this score, citing the guerrilla warfare which she stoutly maintains is sponsored and financed by Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria.

But Turkey, recipient of vast United States military and financial aid, never has complained that her integrity is threatened even though her eastern frontier adjoins the Soviet Union.

Led To Charges

Quite naturally, the Greco-Turkish plan led to immediate charges in the Soviet press that it represents a hostile, aggressive attitude. The government newspaper Izvestia said that it could see the day coming when the entire world will be blacked by military agreements "under the aegis of the United States".

This inevitable reaction and other factors connected with the proposed alliance promises, incidentally, to confront the infant state of Israel with a thorny problem.

Both Greece and Turkey emphasize the importance of Israel and its powerful little army as a major potential in such a pact and they look to the day when she will be included along with Italy, the Levant states of Syria and Lebanon and possibly Egypt.

Israel, however, has pledged itself to absolute neutrality. In speeches at the opening of the constituent assembly in Jerusalem and at the installation of venerable Dr. Chaim Weizmann as president, Israeli spokesmen insisted that under no circumstances will their new country be dragged into what was termed "the power struggle between east and west".

Israel Wants In

There is, on the other hand, Israel's earnest desire for admission to the United Nations.

Nothing could heighten Israel's prestige and international status more than an invitation by other old and sovereign nations to join with them in a military alliance devoted to peace and established under sanction of the U. N. charter.

But acceptance automatically alienate Israel and Russia. And this the Israelis obviously are anxious to avoid.

There is any truth in charges that during the war against the Arabs, the Soviets supplied Israel with arms and ammunition through the medium of the Skoda works at Pilsen in Czechoslovakia.

From the strictly military point of view, there is no question but that a firm Mediterranean alliance would be of truly great significance.

Turkey's hold upon the Dardanelles always has been a tenuous one although new military, naval and air bases built since the war has strengthened it.

But a pact linking the Mediterranean states in a definite commitment for mutual self-defense against any future aggression would give the allies "a Gibraltar at both ends". This in turn, however, would mean a sacrifice for Italian sovereignty and diplomats do not forget that if Mussolini ever had one immense popular appeal to the nation it was his christening of the Mediterranean as "our sea".

On the surface, a Mediterranean pact sounds logical and in order. Beneath, it is plagued with thorny problems.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Is the lady right? I shall leave the decision to you. But before I start quoting from her letter, I want to make two remarks.

First I want to ask the type-setters and the editors not to fool around with the lady's grammar or spelling, because both are charming.

Second I want to say that here is one case where I do not resent the criticism of a foreigner, such as those who come here for a few days, hang a round our sucker nightclubs and then tell their countrymen at home that we are a nation of nitwits and degenerates.

This young woman is different, as you will see in a moment. I shall not give her name or address.

She may have neighbors. You have neighbors, I presume, so you know neighbors.

"Being in this country since Christmas two years ago," she writes, "my home country is or was in western Europe. I came over to marry my husband whom I had met over there while he was still in the Army—a war bride, so to say. Our marriage is a very happy one."

"This to give you a short view what and why I am in this country. In today's column you describe in words a feeling, I couldn't get over for most of the time I have been here."

"There is a meanness, an excitement-searching spirit in almost every one and everything I get in touch with."

"Very often I am wondering if people don't realize how happy comfortably they could live in this wonderful country of theirs, without quarreling, biting, scratching as you call it so right in your column."

"Women as well as men are each others' devils and most of the time in a very insignificant way and for just a nonsense, that if they would put aside for only a short moment their artificial behavior, they would be ashamed of themselves."

"Excitement" is the leading title for every happening. Why don't they try to get fun and excitement out of a good life?

"(And this very confidentially) why are there so many single living persons in this country? Why don't the search for excitement by building up a home that holds the real excitement of life without asking for?"

"Dear Mr. Brandeis this letter is, as said, a personal outbreak toward someone who understands. My husband is not a columnist, he has not yet the journalistic outlook on life, he has still a lot to learn, but as time goes on the experience grows and accomplishes itself. Nevertheless he is a good person."

P. S. "Please don't criticize and laugh too hard the funny turns I do in writing English. Sometimes I think my teacher in English was a Comedirector!"

No, my dear, I won't laugh because I understand. (Copyright, 1949, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The World and the Mud Puddles

STRAINING AT THE GNAT

President Truman is very insistent that Congress adopt his so-called "Civil Rights" program. The principal provision of this program includes the abolition of a poll tax imposed by certain Southern states as a qualification for voting, requiring everyone offering his vote to prove that he has paid at least a nominal poll tax to the state, thereby showing some interest in the consequence of consequences following the adoption or rejection of the matter in question. Whether or not the poll tax is a proper American institution, the tax collected in this manner from Southern voters is only a drop in the bucket compared with the other taxes Mr. Truman, if he has his way, will levy on millions of voters in all the states.

For instance, his excessive budget calls for taxes sufficient to raise four billion dollars additional revenue for social experimentation plans. Four billion dollars more in taxes means a per capita levy on every man, woman and child in the United States of thirty dollars. Does any state impose a poll tax of more than one-tenth of that amount?

To Ask Billions In the second place, Mr. Truman has stated that he will ask eight billion dollars more in payroll taxes for furthering his "security" program. In addition to the regular withholding tax reduced by the Republican tax bill, but likely to be boosted back to the previous high rate—he proposes that the pay envelope reductions be further increased some three hundred per cent. This increase alone would cut the wage earners' take-home pay on the average of at least twenty-five times the amount of the poll tax collected from Southern voters. Yet the president talks out of one side of his mouth against the poll tax and out of the other side of his mouth urges immensely greater tax levies on all the millions of American taxpayers. Any financial relief the Southern voters might get from abolishing the poll tax would hardly be perceptible compared with the next taxes.

From Me To You

By MESEALL

See by the paper where the city police . . . in a formal request . . . ask the City Fathers to help each policeman purchase his uniform. There is an idea that really hits the spot . . . we are in favor of such a move. Have been for some time . . . in fact that was one of our planks in a political platform . . . if and when we ever entered city politics . . . Every man on the force should be dressed alike . . . and the request that has just been offered is not unreasonable . . . fifty dollars . . . that won't purchase a complete uniform . . . We take it that the men are willing to go the rest of the way themselves . . . It will be necessary to have almost two complete uniforms . . . so that one can be at the cleaners when the other one is worn on duty . . . of course it will not be necessary to have two sets of accessories . . . don't know how the rest of you folks feel about the idea . . . but we are definitely in favor of seeing every man of the New Castle police force dressed alike . . . and in favor of the city offering fifty bucks to each man to apply toward his uniform.

There is nothing that makes a better impression on visitors to our community than to see well dressed, courteous policemen doing their duty . . . and we have the makings for such good-will making with the type of men now on the police force . . . BUT today they are handicapped by each man wearing a different type of complete uniform . . . If the fifty is forthcoming it should be stipulated that new uniforms purchased should conform to a style selected by a set rule. The Army, Air Corps, Marines and Navy seem to have little trouble . . . in this matter.

The meanest man (we presume it was a man) of the month was the one who cut down a basketball pole on the playing lot located on Summit street . . . For years this particular lot has been used by the young boys of that section for basketball practice . . . Two large poles were erected some years ago . . . these held the "baskets" . . . Last week some so and so cut one down . . . about four feet from the ground. Didn't take the pole away, just left it there. Just a mean streak . . . why some people don't get doubled up with a bellyache caused from just plain meanness.

Neatest Trick Of The Week

Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

Cold War Inside Government

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Ever since V-J day, a kind of cold war has gone on inside the government here in Washington between military and civilian. Over control and direction of rearmament and over occupation policy in Germany and Japan the skirmishes have been hot.

This is, of course, putting it too simply. But nevertheless the general lines of the contest are fairly clear, and it is something new in American life.

The controversy over confirmation of Mon C. Wallgren, President Truman's good friend, to be chairman of the National Security Resources Board does not at first glance fit into the pattern of this contest. It is, however, as a skirmish in the war that certain of the president's closest advisers see the Wallgren row.

The first chairman of the newly created Securities Resources Board was Arthur M. Hill, who resigned on Dec. 15. Hill, head of the Greyhound Bus company, was considered by some in the White House to be under the domination of Secretary of Defense James Forrestal. Forrestal had proposed that Hill's office, as head of the new board, should be near the Pentagon. It was suspected that Forrestal wanted to make the NSRB, with its far-reaching assignment looking to the integration of industry and natural resources for national defense, into a sideshow of the military.

Get Independent?

Therefore when Hill resigned, after 15 months as chairman, the determination was to get a man for the job who would be independent of both military and big business control. As part of the process of freeing the board from the dominating influence of the Forrestal-Pentagon axis, the board's offices had been moved to the old state department building next door to the White House.

The president himself selected his friend, Wallgren, for the $14,000 chairmanship. They had served together on the Truman war and investigating committee and, as Wallgren put it, his great and good friend was drafting him to do the same kind of searching inquiry in the present period that is neither peace nor war.

But, as Wallgren showed on the witness stand, he knows little about the organization of American industry either in war or in peace. In fact, it was difficult to discover what the former governor from the state of Washington did know.

Being Reassured

Democratic senators expressing nervousness over Wallgren's qualifications and his performance in the all-important job are being reassured. The bureau of the budget, exercise close supervision over the work of the Security Resources Board. As chairman, Wallgren will be able to lean heavily on the able and efficiently staffed budget bureau.

While it may work out like that, this does not seem to me to be the best way to build up the civilian side of the government so that in the long tradition of this country civilians can continue to fix major policies. The alternative is not necessarily a pleasant politician with an undistinguished record in a succession of public offices.

There is little or no doubt that Wallgren will be confirmed. The chief opposition has come from

WASHINGTON

How keep this day of days aflame? 'Tis not enough to hail his name And tell his virtues, one by one, Then fall him when the day has gone.

We are his future! Grown to be The children he would never see, To whom he looked for courage high That liberty should never die.

We warned us always to beware Of every doctrine of despair; To heed no voice that would betray And lead us out of freedom's way.

Firm as he stood, so we must stand Against whatever force may be, To keep our glorious country free. (Copyright, 1949, Edgar A. Guest)

PRAYDA REPORTS ON AMERICAN DIETS

Pravda, the Communist party paper in Moscow, is worrying again about the unhappy lot of the exploited American worker.

In a recent editorial by one V. Chepkakov, this statement appeared: "Nourishment of the workers continues to grow worse. Thus the American press informs us that in Chicago, that center of the meat industry, trade in horse meat is increasing."

Statistics from America are a fascinating thing to the Russians, and are generally used to prove almost anything they wish. The principal idea, however, is to hammer constantly on the theme that life is unbearable in America.

As Russia Would Tell It

By PAUL GALLICO

Transcript of a paterfamilias in the paradise of the Soviet Union telling his small son Igor the beautiful legend of George Washington and cherry tree in celebration of the birthday of the father of the Decadent, Capitalistic, Bourgeois, Imperialistic Democracy, the U. S. A., as picked up in a happy hovel in Moscow by our latest invention, the long distance radio ear:

Hah! Come here, little Igor Igorovitch, climb up into your papa's lap, but be careful of the pants because they got to last yet two more five-year plans, and he will tell you the story of George Washington and the cherry tree.

Is living down in Virginia a long, long time ago, a dirty capitalist by him is the name Augustine Washington. Believe me, Igor, ven I am telling you he is vorst kind of capitalist owning a lot of plantations vich is the name for farms vat don't been collectivized yet. He is filthy vit gelt and has got plenty of slaves.

He ain't got so many slaves as we got today here in the Soviet Union, olav-ha-sholem, and long life to Stalin the other way round, but vat he got all belongs to him vich is vy he is dirty capitalist and also a nogodnik.

Is got also this Augustine Washington plenty cherries trees. Believe me, Igor, it's Lenin's own truth, on the cherries trees is so many cherries should it be coming the Commissars to take it all away for the Government, the party can live off it for five years, except they don't got that system yet in Virginia, it should happen any day.

Name Is George

Is got also this Augustine Washington a son, is small boy same age like you Igor, only he ain't so happy like you because he is son of dirty capitalist and everything goes good by him. He got nothing to be sad about. His name is George Washington.

Papa Washington is very proud of his boynik Georg, just like he is proud of his cherries trees and like I am proud of my little Igor who some day will grow up to be a fine man just like the picture of Comrade Stalin hanging over there vich is vat ve are all loyally vishing him, only it should be high enough.

One day is valking Pape Washington amongst his cherries trees, counting them to make sure no common people is eating away any of his cherries, ven, evault, he is coming upon his favorite cherries tree vich is chopped right down to the ground.

And who is standing around in the neighborhood, little Igor, looking like nobody's business with innocence, holding a small hatchetski in his hands? You guessed it, Igor. You smot boy. Some day you growing up to be smot man like Comrade Molotov who could slowly begin a drop dead a little from an accumulation of things. It's like you said, his little son Georg Washington.

Who's Chopping

So is thinking now Papa Washington he will find out how good boynik is his son Georg so he is asking him like this: "So! Ha! Who is the one maye around here in the neighborhood who is chopping down my favorite cherries tree?"

Is speaking up right away vith the answer Georg Washington, "Papa, I cannot tell a lie. I did it vith my little hatchetski."

Now is growing all red in the face from rage, vith anger, vith exasperation. Papa Washington and he is yelling, "Vat! Lowlife! Schlemiel! Pseudnyak! Bum! DEMOCRAT! You cannot tell a lie? How you expect to grow up to become good Communist Soviet Citizen if you cannot tell lies? Weh, I am disgraced! My own boynik telling the truth. How you think Comrade Salin, Molotov and Vishinsky became such great men if they don't tell lies all the time? Gerrada here and don't come back until you think up a good one."

Is how it was in Virginia in the old days, little Igor.

State Police Say:

At this season of the year we sometimes find the roads covered with a thin film of ice during the early morning hours. The sun usually melts the ice in an hour or two, but at points where there are high embankments, hill crests, curves, etc., the sun's rays cannot penetrate. This makes for hazardous driving, because we then have intermittent stretches of wet and icy roads. Recently, within an hour, two drivers were involved in accidents, which resulted in damages of $3600.00, because the drivers evidently failed to recognize these very obvious danger signs.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TEACHING CHILD TO BE HELPFUL

You know some homes in which the children from five to eighteen or twenty and parents all together do the household chores and drudgeries. Each member of the family has great consideration for all the other members. All working together, they often have time for loiling together and having fun together.

You probably know more homes (certainly many more of them) in which the children help very little or not at all. Even the father may not. There the mother, with little or no domestic help, drudges hour after hour, day in and day out, a veritable home slave. Usually she is a willing slave but she may at times chide the older children for not helping her, and when all worn out and nervous, tell them that if they really loved her they would help her.

Earlier Training

But it's not so much a matter of love as of lack of earlier training. No use to jaw at the child twelve, or fifteen for not helping at home. Unless he has been practiced earlier in helping, he will hardly change suddenly and voluntarily to help. Oh, yes, an occasional older child, whose parents rarely or never scold but have gentle, lovely ways with him, may be prevailed on by his mother's quiet suggestions or requests to help her a great deal, unusual as are such cases.

The child who at eight, twelve or thirteen lets his mother be his slave has lost something on this account in self-regard and in feeling himself a worthy member of the family. What's more, he loses in moral fiber from not having helped and done his share in the family group. Now for a child to do his worthy part of the chores and drudgeries about the home is for him to have had good sufficient practice at doing some things he would rather not at the moment do.

Any child, who grows up avoiding in his daily living, especially about the home, the little or big jobs he knows he should do, has lost to that degree essential training for sticking to the job whether pleasant or unpleasant in whatever he faces at school, at work or at mingling in the larger community with his fellows. It's hard to imagine.

Neighborhood House Activity Continues

Christine And Jean Butler, Co-Workers Carry On Intensified Program Each Month

Co-workers Christine and Jean Butler of the Neighborhood House, located in the basement of Christ Methodist church, carried on another intensified program of religious and social work among the youth and adults of the South Side during the past month. The two women made 45 calls in the homes of the area during the month.

All classes carried on a regular schedule during the month with fine progress made in the sewing classes. Mrs. H. B. Williams prepared the work and Mrs. Howard Drake assists part time. Miss Pauline Reno and Miss June Austin teach the classes also. Other girls have made mittens, pot holders and aprons and are starting on stocking dolls for the Navajo children.

Smaller boys and girls of the Neighborhood House have made mittens, bean bags, pot holders. The Greek English class now numbers 11 with two sessions held weekly. Flag salute and prayer closes each class. L. T. L. is learning a temperance alphabet with new songs and new temperance facts. Home Evangelism club and older groups are using study work of "Building Life's Temple." Younger ones are using the story of the New Testament. Bonnie Enziezik was awarded a Bible for attendance.

J. A. C. club is learning J. A. C. National hymn and studying the preamble to the constitution. They are starting on the Ten Commandments. Scrap books are being used in the work. Boys of the Evangelism club have been giving out tracts and Gospels of John.

Sunday school membership is still good. Recently James Begay of the Navajo Indian tribe spoke to the Sunday school. Mrs. Emily and Leslie Kalajainen visited recently with Leslie pleading with numbers on the piano accordion. One Bible has been given out and 20 Gospels of John given during the period.

Donors for the month included: First Baptist church; Young Adults of First Baptist; Wimodausis, Miss Eva Lightner, Johnson class of First U. P.; Ladies of Kiwanis; W. S. C. S.; Mahoning Methodist; Mrs. Lutton, Grace Bible church; James Ball, Miss Bessie Duran, Mrs. Morco Cornilones, Miss Tina Cummings, Mrs. Frank Ruby, East Brook; Mrs. Emily Kalajainen, Mrs. H. B. Revision Of State Penal Code Sought

Numerous Changes In Law Are Under Consideration By Legislature

HARRISBURG, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Revision of the commonwealth's 89-year-old penal code to permit prosecution of persons furnishing false and libelous statements to news reporters was called for today by the joint state government commission.

The proposed addition to the code would permit prosecution even if the statements were not published or broadcast.

The commission also included within the provisions of the proposed code a section imposing stiff penalties for persons convicted of bribing athletes in amateur or professional sporting events. A bill currently on its way through the legislature is aimed specifically at sports bribery.

Modernization of the commonwealth's penal laws to allow juries hearing murder cases to revise the procedure for determining guilt also was recommended. Juries would be required to make two decisions.

"In its first finding," the legislative reference bureau explained, "the jury determines the question of guilt or innocence. If the jury returns a first degree verdict, evidence will then be received to enable the jury to determine whether the guilty accused should receive the death penalty or the lesser penalty of life imprisonment."

"After receiving this evidence," the bureau added, "the jury retires and returns with a finding of either death or life imprisonment."

Juries currently render verdicts and any recommendations for leniency simultaneously while in cases where defendants plea guilty the sentence of death in the electric chair or life imprisonment is decided by the jurist.

Good Progress On New Addition To Shenango School

Work which has been steadily progressing since last summer, on the Shenango Township Elementary School extension is nearing completion. The new eight room addition will make it possible for the school to abandon five portable buildings now in use.

Interior painting is all that keeps the school from using the building this school term, but it will not likely be put in use until next fall.

The new structure will contain seven class room, one health room, plus storage space and toilet facilities. The first three grades will be the occupants when the extension is completed.

Dinner Event At Central Church Starts Program

Young people of the Christian Endeavor of Central Presbyterian church, on the Diamond, gathered for a supper February 20, in the church, with the Washington's birthday motif being used in decorating. Dr. Robert M. Patterson, pastor, and Mrs. Patterson were responsible for arrangements.

The pastor's wife has many interesting plans for the ten-age group at future Christian Endeavor meetings. For the older group, which includes young married couples, book reviews will be discussed.

A contest to increase the membership of all the young peoples classes has been started. A first team will open the contest, and new members will count for a given number of points. To stimulate competition, a second team will create opposition for seeking new members.

These meetings, which include singing and tasty suppers are conducted each Sunday at 6 p. m. in the basement of Central church and are open to all youth.

Thaddeus Stevens Alumni Meeting

Members of the Thaddeus Stevens alumni met in the school for a business meeting and social time. W. C. Druschel presided.

The following officers were elected: president, Wesley Mann, Jr.; vice president, Frank Morris; secretary, Mrs. Margaret Williams Kennedy; treasurer, Mrs. Marion Sines Reynolds. The newly elected directors are Howard Reynolds, Mrs. Bertha Stewart Campbell and Roy McGaffie.

Howard Reynolds acted as master of ceremonies and presented the following program: Hammond accordion quartet, consisting of Joseph Koscinski, Anthony Morgan, Eugene Adamczyk and Edwin Gorgas, who presented several numbers, recitations and songs were presented by the Three Flies—Flip, Flap and Flop—who were played by Mrs. Paul McGaffie, Mrs. Plummer Gibson and Mrs. W. C. Druschel; completing the program was the Thaddeus Stevens black face quartet, which was made up of Albert Marks, Charles Marks, Roy McGaffie and Frank McGaffie. The quartet was directed by C. M. England.

Plans are being made for the Thaddeus Stevens reunion picnic to be held June 10 at Cascade park.

Complain Hickory Creek Polluted

Residents Who Use Stream For Fishing Grounds Charge Waste Is Dumped

Complaint was voiced this morning by John C. McMillin, of North Beaver township, that Hickory creek, which is widely used as a fishing spot by many anglers in Lawrence county, and which is stocked occasionally with fish, is being polluted by the waste from a filtering plant, set up at Bessemer recently.

This pollution is killing the fish, Mr. McMillin states, and residents are planning to take the matter to the proper state authorities.

Model Plane Group Loses Best Glider

New Castle Sky Wolves, local model sport flyers, reported today the loss of a large soaring type model glider.

The glider was launched Saturday at the New Castle airport and was last seen traveling in a northeasterly direction at an altitude of 1100 feet. The glider is trimmed in yellow and white and the number 34 is affixed to the wings, body and tail.

Attempts to locate the glider were made by Mr. Joseph Gargasz of the Penn Aero Service.

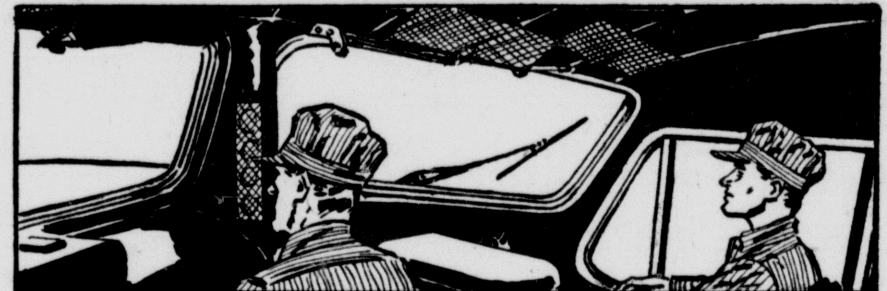

The particular glider, which has been lost, was to be used by the local Sky Wolves to represent New Castle in various model contests throughout the country this summer. Anyone knowing of the whereabouts of the glider should contact Rudy Walter, 10 Edison avenue, or call 6139-J after six o'clock.

The oxide of tungsten is recovered from the ore by chemical means, and heated in an electrical furnace with hydrogen gas. The hydrogen and oxygen combine, leaving tungsten power which is pressed into bars. The bars are subjected to a heavy electrical current, raising the temperature of the tungsten where it fuses into a rod.

DIESEL LOCOMOTIVES HAUL MORE GOODS AND PASSENGERS...

... WITH GREATER SAFETY AND COMFORT FOR EVERYBODY

BECAUSE OF ITS MODERN, ALMOST FOOLPROOF DESIGN, THE DIESEL IS PRACTICALLY AUTOMATIC!

Yet leaders of two railroad unions demand extra men on diesels! Just plain feather-bedding—here's why!

Here's the truth about diesel locomotives:

Diesel locomotives are equipped with every modern device for maximum safety. They have automatic controls. They can be operated safely by one man. But two men—an engineer and a fireman—are now employed on a diesel road locomotive.

Diesel locomotives—adopted by the railroads as one way of improving their service to you—have hauled millions of passengers in recent years with one of the best safety records in railroad history!

They have pulled millions of tons of freight millions of miles—also with one of the best safety records in railroad history!

Full Pay—No Work!

Leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen are now demanding an extra engineer and an extra fireman on diesels, claiming the extra men are needed. But the facts prove these men are not needed. They would just be drawing full pay for doing no work.

The railroads are placing an ever-increasing number of diesels in service—both passenger and freight. These trains are operated at speeds consistent with safety and good service—and on both counts their record tops all public transportation.

Feather-Bedding Is Against Public Interest!

If the ridiculous demands of these union leaders were granted, it would mean paying out millions in wages to men not needed in diesel locomotives.

The leaders of the Engineers' Union have threatened to call a strike to enforce their "feather-bedding" demands. Nevertheless the railroads are resisting—and will continue to resist—such "make-work" schemes which require payment for work not done—schemes which are contrary to the interest of the whole American people.

HERE ARE THE FACTS!

1. The safety record of trains pulled by diesel locomotives is the best of all public transportation.
2. Diesel locomotives provide the best working conditions locomotive engineers and firemen have ever enjoyed: comfort, cleanliness, ease of operation, maximum safety.
3. Diesel locomotives are maintained at peak operating efficiency.
4. The diesel is virtually automatic. It is equipped with the most modern safety appliances.
5. The diesel locomotive is the last word in railroad efficiency, safety and comfort.

Paintings Stolen By Nazis During War Are Shown

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 22.—Nineteen famous paintings which arrived in Pittsburgh Monday were being prepared for a 16-day exhibit at Carnegie Institute Museum of Fine Arts.

The paintings—Rembrandts, Tintoretto's, Botticelli's, Hals, Rubens, Watteau and Tintoretto's—are part of a collection the Nazis had stolen from various galleries in Europe and stored in a salt mine southwest of Erfurt, Germany.

The 93 paintings that will be displayed in Pittsburgh, beginning February 27, and 109 others stored in Washington are valued at around $80,000,000. After a tour of 13 American cities the masterpieces are to be returned to Germany.

City Manager For Third Class Cities Proposed

Measure Is Presented To State Legislature; Would Affect New Castle

HARRISBURG, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Legislation opening the way for city manager government in Pennsylvania's 46 third class cities was before the House today.

Sponsored by Rep. Ray Riley (R) Lycoming and Minority Leader Hiram G. Andrews, Cambria, the bill would carry into effect a constitutional amendment adopted by voters in 1922 to permit voters in the third class cities to petition for a referendum on the city manager plan.

Under the Riley-Andrews proposal, the question could be posed for voters either by county commissioners, upon the petition of the council, of the city or open the request of voters equal to two per cent of the electorate.

Would Be on Ballot
The question would be placed on the ballot at the first general or municipal election occurring not less than 60 days after a petition is filed. Should the question fail, it could not be re-submitted to voters upon petition for 20 months.

"No proceedings shall be taken to discontinue the plan until it has been in effect at least four years," the co-sponsors proposed.

The manager, serving an indefinite term, would be chosen by a majority of a five-member city council which would fix compensation. Voters would elect a mayor but his duties would be ceremonial although judicial powers invested by law would not be disturbed. The mayor would have a vote in council. The manager would name a city solicitor subject to the approval of the council.

Two Philadelphia Safes Are Robbed

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Two safe robberies, which netted thieves more than $2,000, were reported to police today.

William Fisher, an employee of the Rall Grille in Central Philadelphia, discovered when he reported for work this morning that the door had been torn off the tavern's safe. He estimated that more than $1,000 had been stolen.

Harry Kanefsky, proprietor of a West Philadelphia jewelry shop, told police that $1,015 in cash and an undetermined amount of jewelry had been stolen from his store.

Media Theatre Scene Of Robbery

MEDIA, Pa., Feb. 22.—(INS)—Thieves armed with acetylene torches were revealed Monday to have stolen $1,500 from the Media theatre.

Harlan M. Taylor, the manager, told police that when he arrived at the movie house this morning he discovered that the lock had been burned from the safe. Two gas cylinder tanks, each weighing more than 300 pounds, and an acetylene torch, were found beside the safe.

Merchant Returns From Hollywood Purchasing Trip

Al. Borio, of Van Fleet & Borio, has returned from his yearly Hollywood buying trip. Although Hollywood and Southern California cities were handicapped with snow and unusual cold weather, Mr. Borio's trip was very successful in securing smart and unusual merchandise for his trade.

An unusual smart line of Sport Shirts were purchased which have never been shown in this district before.

A large variety of "California Classics" in Neck Wear, both in Wool and Pure Dyed Silks are now on display.

Unusual California shades in Suits, Topcoats, Sport Coatings and Slacks were purchased—both in regular and tropical weights.

This Unusual Merchandise can only be appreciated by actually seeing it on display at the VAN FLEET & BORIO show rooms, located at 212 UNION TRUST BLDG.

Western Germany Idle Are Increasing

BERLIN, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay reported today that unemployment in western Germany is "now at its highest level since the beginning of the occupation."

The U.S. military governor also noted a "small but significant" drop in prices, and a slight decrease in the cost of living throughout western-occupied Germany.

Gen. Clay in his semi-monthly report, said that a 27 per cent rise in the number of idle in January, brought total unemployment throughout western Germany to 944,200. This figure is an increase of 200,000 over the final figure for 1948.

agine any healthy child acquiring best character education who has not rather liberally shared in the home chores and responsibilities.

One Reason

Why do so many growing children not help at home? One big reason is that many parents have been led by some writers and teachers to believe that a child should never be made to do anything he doesn't feel like doing but that everything must be made so attractive to him that he will choose to do what he should. Just imagine a boy or girl finding it such fun to peel potatoes, set the table, wash the dishes, scrub floors, tidy up rooms and make beds that he can't resist doing such.

Well this may work with the tot from two to five and be a good way for him. But it won't work with the older child. Sensible parents, knowing it won't work, set some regular requirements. If the child from six to twelve can no more escape some regular jobs at home than he can escape breathing, provided he meets with no unnecessary annoyance, he should be fairly well prepared to help at home as he grows older. It's awfully important to do no jawing and to cultivate as comfortable and companionable a family atmosphere as possible. (My bulletin, "How To Teach Child To Help at Home," may be had in a stamped envelope by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York, N.Y.)

JOBS UPON A TIME

HERBERT LEHMAN, ex-governor of New York state, was born in New York City, March 28, 1878, and received his education at Williams, New York university and other colleges. Lehman began business life in the employ of a textile manufacturing company, where he was advanced to vice-president and treasurer. In 1903 he became a partner in a banking firm with his brothers. He was elected lieutenant governor of New York state by a large plurality in 1928, and re-elected in 1930, and was governor from 1932-42, then was appointed director of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations in the Department of State.

CONGRESSMAN Sol Bloom was born in Pekin, Ill., but moved early to San Francisco. Congressman Bloom was successively in the newspaper, theatrical and music publishing business, and was superintendent of construction of the Midway Plaisance of the Chicago exposition in 1893. He settled in New York City in 1903, engaging in real estate and construction business. Bloom was elected to the 68th Congress and has been serving continuously ever since, having been re-elected to the 81st, where he is the new chairman of the Foreign Affairs committee.

WASHINGTON CALLING

Only Advisory

During his interrogation, Wallgren said that after all the job he was being considered for was only advisory. Technically that is true, although it is also true that recently the NSRB considered giving the chairmanship direct authority to make contracts and then decide against such a step.

Actually, the chairman makes recommendation for action—on stockpiling, the development of resources, and so on—to the president, who authorizes one of the executive departments to carry out the recommendations. In practice, of course, the chairman would be the only official to have all the information and it is unlikely that his recommendations would be challenged.

If in the present troubled state of the world, the civilian side of the government is to maintain its proper constitutional authority, it must show up in performance a lot better than in the Wallgren episode. Too often since the end of the war civilian authority has defaulted, leaving a vacuum that was necessarily filled by the military. Occupied Germany is a good example. No war was ever won with one side in apologetic retreat.

Major Floods Now Feared In Midwest Area

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Army Secretary Royall said the armed services hoped to end relief operations in western blizzard areas shortly.

At the same time, he warned of the possibility of major floods in the Missouri and Mississippi river basins.

Royall said blizzard relief operations cost the armed services about five million dollars. He said "a few more good days of good weather without any new blizzards" should allow closing of relief operations.

The secretary estimated that a rapid thaw plus heavy spring rains could create "a dangerous flood situation that might require 25 million dollars to combat."

Asks for Funds

Royall said he had asked for an appropriation of 22 and one half million dollars to meet possible flood conditions, and that the army engineers are "already strengthening existing flood control structures and stockpiling materials in strategic locations."

Royall said that airlift operations by both the navy and the air force have been reduced by the opening of roads in Arizona, Nevada, Nebraska and South Dakota, but that new blizzards in Idaho, Wyoming and North Dakota "have necessitated a shifting of operations to those states."

Royall estimated that a gradual reduction of personnel and equipment "so that operations may be completely turned over to state authorities by March first or soon after."

Suits Ask Pennsy To Pay $13,000

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 22.—(INS)—Suits seeking $13,000 damages from the Pennsylvania railroad were filed in Washington county as a result of a train-auto collision in Zanesville, O., February 8, 1948.

The suits were filed by Louis P. Lavie, Richard H. Lavie, Mary J. Lavie and Hadley Fred Campbell, all of McDonald, Pa.

The car was owned by Mary Lavie, who was not in the wreck. The suits say the other three were injured seriously when the car was struck by a locomotive and caboose.

Richard and Louis Lavie each ask $5,000, Campbell $2,500, and Mary Lavie $500 for damages to the car.

Seek To Prevent Maritime Strike

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(INS)—The House Monday approved and sent to the Senate an administration bill designed to head off a maritime strike next month. The vote was 230 to 7.

The House passed a measure which would validate contracts affecting stevedores and longshoremen, the extension of which has been threatened by a Supreme Court decision.

Speedy enactment of the measure was urged by Labor Secretary Tobin because shipping concerns have objected to agreeing to new contracts as long as a dispute continued over so-called "over-time-on-over-time pay."

The Supreme Court ruled last June 7 that when a company pays premium pay—higher than the normal weekly rate—for work during nights, weekends and holidays, time and one-half pay must be paid on all premium pay over 40 hours.

The legislation will validate the maritime contracts and make it unnecessary for management to pay overtime on premium pay.

Pending settlement of the dispute companies have been refusing to sign new contracts. Maritime workers have threatened to halt work when their existing contracts expire unless they are renewed.

George Washington

J. William Neyman

George Washington was born Feb. 22, 1732 in Washington parish, Westmoreland county, Va. He was the son of Augustine Washington by his second wife, Mary Ball. The family was one of wealth and high name, the first member of the family, John Washington, came from England in 1657. Augustine, by his first marriage, left a son, Lawrence, whom he made his principal heir and guardian of his son, George. Lawrence died while George was still young, and soon after on the death of a young daughter, George inherited the whole estate. Little is known of the early life of George Washington.

Many of the anecdotes told of his childhood are fictitious. He matured early, was a tall masculine boy who could outrun and outstride any of his fellows and was universally known as a leader in athletic sports as well as in social life. His father died when he was 11 years old and his education was left in the care of his mother, it was abandoned. His aptitude for mathematics opened the way for him to become a surveyor. His record shows that he was painstaking and accurate. He was regarded as a lad of unusual promise. Lord Fairfax, who had come into possession of a large tract of territory, entrusted the work of surveying it to George Washington. His work was done with such painstaking care that at the early age of 16 Lord Fairfax secured his appointment as a public surveyor. At this time Washington had attained his full six feet and two inches in height.

At the age of 19 Washington was appointed adjutant general of the colony and studied the art of war under a Dutch soldier. In 1753 he was entrusted with the responsible leadership of a company of frontiersmen to ascertain the nature of the difficulties between the English and the French and the Indians about the source of the Ohio river. His work won the praises of all and he was the hero of the hour. His report indicated war and he was appointed lieutenant colonel of a Virginia regiment.

Exposed to Great Danger

Washington and his troops were exposed to great danger. In 1755 General Braddock arrived in Virginia and hearing of Washington's exploits, offered him a place on his staff with the rank of colonel which he gladly accepted. The death of Braddock threw on Washington the responsibility of commanding the disorganized troops, which was done with bravery and much skill.

Washington was married January 6, 1759 to Martha Dandridge, the widow of Daniel Park Curtis, a lady with youth, beauty and large fortune. Thus before he was 27 he was the foremost soldier of the continent, was widely and favorably known and was one of the richest men in the country.

Washington spent the next 16 years as a successful and influential Virginia planter. He owned a large number of slaves, whom he managed with special skill and kindness.

He was elected as one of the six Virginians from Virginia to the Continental Congress.

Named Head of Army

On June 15, 1775, on the motion of John Adams, George Washington was unanimously elected commander in chief of the army. On the next day he accepted the position. His work as commander in chief is well known to every student of history. Under his skilled leadership with his small army of untrained and poorly equipped soldiers he gained the victory over the British army and gained for the colonies freedom from England. He served as commander in chief of the army without salary. He won the esteem of every American. He became "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." He was called "The father of his country."

He was elected first president under the constitution of the United States. He was president of the convention that drew up the constitution. He served eight years as president. Then at his own request retired to his Mount Vernon home where he looked forward to a peaceful and quiet life. He preferred the farm to all the activities and honors of the battlefield and council chamber.

But only two years after his return to Mount Vernon he took a long ride on horseback and was caught in a snowstorm and caught a severe cold which caused his death two days later, December 14, 1799 at the age of 68. He was buried in a tomb in the sight of his Mount Vernon house.

Washington was a man of highest honor and dignity, was always gracious, and when meeting people would always bow to them with much ceremony, but never shook hands with any one. It is to Washington we owe our flag, with its 13 stripes alternate red and white for the 13 colonies and in the blue field a white star for each state as it comes into the union.

Washington was a great and good man. As long as our country lives he will be loved and honored as the hero of the Revolutionary War which gave us our freedom and led to founding of our nation. As the first president under the constitution our debt to George Washington is one that we can never pay and one which every true American will never fail to acknowledge. His birthday is a legal holiday in state and territory of the nation and its anniversary will be observed by a great people as long as the nation lasts.

Latin Countries End Their Dispute

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Costa Rica and Nicaragua Monday settled their two-month-old dispute and signed a treaty of friendship.

The treaty, which was signed in Washington by Costa Rican Ambassador Mario Esquivel and Nicaraguan Ambassador Sevilla Sacasa, provides that both nations will submit all future conflicts to a peaceful solution.

The dispute between the two Central American countries developed December 11 when Costa Rica charged that Nicaragua had armed and given support to 1,000 Costa Rican insurgents who crossed the border allegedly to overthrow the government of President Jose Figueres.

Ministers Act On New Constitution

Pastors Set Aside Sunday, April 3, As A Day To Assist In Work Of City Mission

In a largely attended session, members of the New Castle Ministerial association gathered Monday in First Presbyterian church for the regular meeting of the association. Rev. Owen Shields, president, was in charge and Rev. James A. Gaiser, aided by Rev. Howard Redmond, conducted a period of devotion.

Rev. Cyril Smith, superintendent of the City Mission, presented the financial status of the mission. He asked that the ministers sponsor a mission day in their churches, when each member would be asked to contribute a dollar toward the mission improvement program. Sunday, April 3, was set aside by the pastors as the day for the mission offering.

Dr. Robert F. Galbreath gave a report on the committee for religious education. He reported to the committee's meeting with the New Castle Board of Education. The school board tabled their decision on released time for religious education until the meeting on March 16.

Place Is Changed

Announcement was made during the meeting that the service concerning world government, which was formerly scheduled for Central Presbyterian church on March 11, had been moved to First Methodist church on the same day. Literature on temperance was passed to the pastors and they were asked to set aside March 6 as temperance Sunday, at which time a temperance sermon is to be delivered.

The order of the day called for the discussion and adoption of the proposed constitution which had been drawn up by Dr. Paul Graham and his committee. The proposed constitution was discussed thoroughly and each section was acted upon separately. Dr. Graham conducted the discussion period, which will be carried over to the next meeting on April 7 for final action on the adoption.

Mahoning Valley Civic Club Meets

Mahoning Valley Civic club was entertained Saturday evening, February 19, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Knoll, Hillsville road, with Miss Martha Matthews as co-hostess.

Business meeting was conducted by president, Mrs. Elmer Baird, at which time programs for following months were discussed. Mrs. Fred Knoll was appointed to take charge of flower and card committee in the place of Miss Ivon Walter, who had asked to be relieved of that position.

Meeting was then turned over to Mrs. Merle Davis, chairman of the program committee. Mrs. Davis introduced the other members of the program committee, who each talked on a famous man in American history who had their birthday in February.

Scott Wallace took as his subject "The Life of Edison" and gave an informative talk on his various inventions and how much we are indebted to him today. Mrs. Elmer Baird read interesting excerpts from Anthony Gross' book, "Lincoln's Own Stories." Miss Mary Teresa Byler took George Washington as her subject and gave the most important facts in his life.

Miss Patricia Mack then favored with two beautifully rendered piano selections.

The group was then seated at tables decorated in patriotic colors where a delicious lunch, in keeping with the season, was served.

Next meeting will be held at a local tea room March 10 with Mrs. Pearl Cochran, Mrs. Adda McCullough and Mr. and Mrs. Merle Davis as hosts.

Have Leading Roles In Play

Miss Hinsh And Welker To Head Cast For 'The Professor Goes Haywire'

James Welker Nancy Hinsh

The senior high school's farce comedy "The Professor Goes Haywire," will have James Welker and Nancy Hinsh in the leading roles.

James will be the "professor" and Nancy, the romantic daughter of the dean of the college who has fallen in love with the personable and unresponsive new member of the faculty. Under the circumstances the ups and downs of the course of true love are considerably accentuated for purposes of entertainment. The action all takes place in the space of about twenty-four hours in the middle of Haywire Week on the college campus. This is a traditional occasion when the students are given license in "razzing" the faculty and the new professor is given an extra dosage, the events of which will furnish an evening of hilarity for Friday evening's audience.

Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hinsh and James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Welker. Both are seniors and both have already demonstrated their ability in their highly successful roles in the senior class play of the fall term, "Susie the Siren."

Book Projector Used At Hospital

Patients Flat On Back Enjoy Projector Formerly Given To Library By Lions Club

The ceiling books projector given to the public library by the Lions club has been at the Jameson Memorial hospital for some time. In use by Lester Dyer, who was badly burned in a collision of two trucks on the Harlanburg-Slippery Rock road. As Mr. Dyer is no longer obliged to keep a horizontal position, the projector will be passed on to other bedfast hospital patients.

The patient presses a button to turn the pages of a book projected on the ceiling from a roll of film. Thirty-five books, including the Bible, have been included with the projector and this collection will be added to as new books on film become available. There are novels, sports and adventure stories, biographies, children's stories, etc., in the collection.

LOCALLY GROWN RED CLOVER SEED PREFERRED

Home-grown red clover seed may not be so bright and attractive as some commercial lots, but it is more likely to be adapted to local conditions, including disease resistance.

However, the supply of home-grown seed seldom equals the demand. Hence, efforts have been made to develop and commercialize superior strains of red clover which will be adapted to special conditions.

Cumberland was developed for conditions common to southern Pennsylvania. It has been quite satisfactory, and even farther north appears hardy. Kenland, a new strain with similar adaptation, is not yet generally available. Midland was developed for conditions which prevail in northern Pennsylvania. Mammoth red clover also has superior strains but none is recognized in the seed trade.

Clover and other seeds sold retail must have germination and purity tests to guard purchasers against weed seed and poor germination. These tests are made by the State Department of Agriculture at Harrisburg.

CHICKS LIKE FRESH AIR, BUT NO DRAFT

Who wants to work, eat and sleep in a draft? Or in foul air? Not those young early-hatched winter chicks. In hot weather they prefer cross-ventilation, but in cold weather an opening 4 or 5 inches wide clear across the front of the pen and up high will be better.

This ventilation arrangement, serves both as an intake and an outlet for air when windows are closed. If a hinged board covers the opening the flow of air can be regulated. For air movement over the floor and at the ceiling a similar ventilator can be installed between rafters in the rear, and a rear window may be opened. Ample light for all purposes may be provided by half-sash windows, and if they slide up and down they can be adjusted for ventilation.

Congress Passes Extension Of Export Control

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Congress on Monday passed and sent to the White House legislation extending for 28 months President Truman's authority to control American exports.

Final approval came when the Senate agreed to a clarifying amendment proposed by the House, earlier passed the legislation.

The Export Control Bill continued the President's authority, in effect since 1940, from February 28, 1949 to June 30, 1950. Republicans charged that the existing law was extensively broadened, but Democratic sponsors said the chief change provided for "a more effective enforcement program."

Violators of the law would be subject to possible penalties of $10,000 fine and one year imprisonment.

Israel-Egypt Appear Ready To End Strife

RHODES, Feb. 22.—(INS)—The signing of an Israeli-Egyptian armistice appears to be a certainty before the end of the week.

Meanwhile, it was officially announced that Trans-Jordan will send a delegation to the island of Rhodes on Thursday to join the negotiations being conducted by acting United Nations Mediator Dr. Ralph Bunche.

The acceptance of the armistice now hinges on the Egyptian government's reaction to a copy of the draft agreement which was flown to Cairo yesterday. An official response is expected today. Israel already has accepted the armistice agreement, although a spokesman in Tel Aviv denied reports that Israel already has signed the accord.

A government spokesman in Tel Aviv indicated that the armistice is almost an accomplished fact when he said that the Israeli delegates will return from Rhodes after the conclusion of the talks "towards the end of the week."

Plan Blockage Of Civil Rights Fight

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Sen. George (D) Ga., Senate finance chairman, announced Monday he will try to lay the reciprocal trade agreements bill before the Senate next Monday—in time to head off the civil rights fight.

Monday, February 28 is the administration's announced date for calling up the new anti-filibuster rule and will mark the first round in the bitter battle over civil rights.

Southern Democrats are prepared to filibuster the proposed rule change, which would allow the Senate by two-thirds vote to limit debate on any matter—including racial legislation.

George said he hopes to wind up public hearings on reciprocal trade—began last Thursday—by Tuesday or Wednesday at the latest. Aside from the administration's urgency for speed on the tariff measure, George explained: "As a very loyal Southerner, I have another reason."

ALARMING

Along about election time we hear many speakers who "view with alarm."

An alarm clock sometimes is rather alarming. Baby has something like an alarm clock in his tummy. When he gets hungry he tells about it.

Rules and regulations are sometimes very good. Baby has not learned much about rules yet. He knows that he is hungry. He advertises it. He keeps on advertising till his hunger is satisfied.

Wise baby doctors say that it is a good idea to pay attention to baby's alarm.

Feed him when he is hungry regardless of the alarm clock.

Feed him until he is satisfied whether he takes one ounce or ten. He is the only one who knows when he is hungry and when he has enough.

If he is the first baby, he probably has to live by the book. After a while the book gets lost and the babies get long better—maybe.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Dads And Babies

We all know that it takes two parents to bring a child into the world. Sometimes there isn't as clear a recognition that a baby can be brought up best by two parents. Dad may feel that he hasn't much to contribute to the infant in the early months but that he will play his part when the youngster gets old enough to go on walks or to play ball.

There's more and more evidence coming out of the careful study of infants that leads us to believe that Dad has a real role in the care of the youngest children in the family as well as playing the role of pal to the older ones. First of all, a mother who is carrying the day-long responsibility of the care of the baby is likely to be tired and perhaps irritable at the end of the day. Father, coming home from work, can often bathe the youngster or feed him with more calmness. After all, he hasn't been on this particular kind of job all day.

In addition, the baby will be much happier and more secure if there is more than one person to whom he can turn for care, affection and fun. And there's Dad himself. He shouldn't be denied the fun of taking care of the infant, of hearing him gurgle and coo as he is fed or dried. Such early experience builds a fine foundation for later relationships.

Seeking Production Of Radiation Device To Protect Peoples

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(INS)—The Atomic Energy Commission told Congress Monday the agency is seeking "mass production" of a radiation detection device to be used for civilian defense in event of an enemy atomic attack.

This information was given to the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee by Carroll Wilson, general manager of the commission. Wilson also disclosed to the committee that the commission and the armed services are working on a plan to have a force of trained operators with Geiger counters ready to rush to the scene of an enemy attack.

The atomic official said that defense needs call for a radiation detection device that can be produced in vast numbers and be simple enough that slightly-trained persons can use it.

Senator Offers Bill To Repeal State Tax-Anything Law

HARRISBURG, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Repeal of the so-called "tax-anything law" and enactment of a substitute state mercantile tax was advocated today by Senate Minority Leader John H. Dent.

Money collected under a mercantile levy would be returned to political sub-divisions for local use, he explained. Increased state taxes for education would be the answer to failure to finance school construction with long term bonds, Dent asserted.

The Westmoreland Democrat offered his recommendation to the Republican-controlled Senate in his analysis of Gov. James H. Duff's biennial budget.

Uranium Ore Found Near Limoges, France

PARIS, Feb. 22.—(INS)—The French Atomic Energy Commission issued a communique Monday designed to correct "inexact reports" concerning the scope and value of a uranium ore strike near Limoges in East Central France.

First reports said that three veins ten feet thick each were discovered.

Locate Zone
The communique, signed by Prof. Frederick Joliot-Curie, said that the commission's prospectors have located a "zone of very strong radioactivity in the area." But the statement said that "only after completion of sounding operations will it be possible to determine the depth and length of pitchblend deposits."

The statement said the find is "important and promising but all conclusions on the richness of the uranium content in this region at present are premature."

Suggest Lowering Voting Age To 18

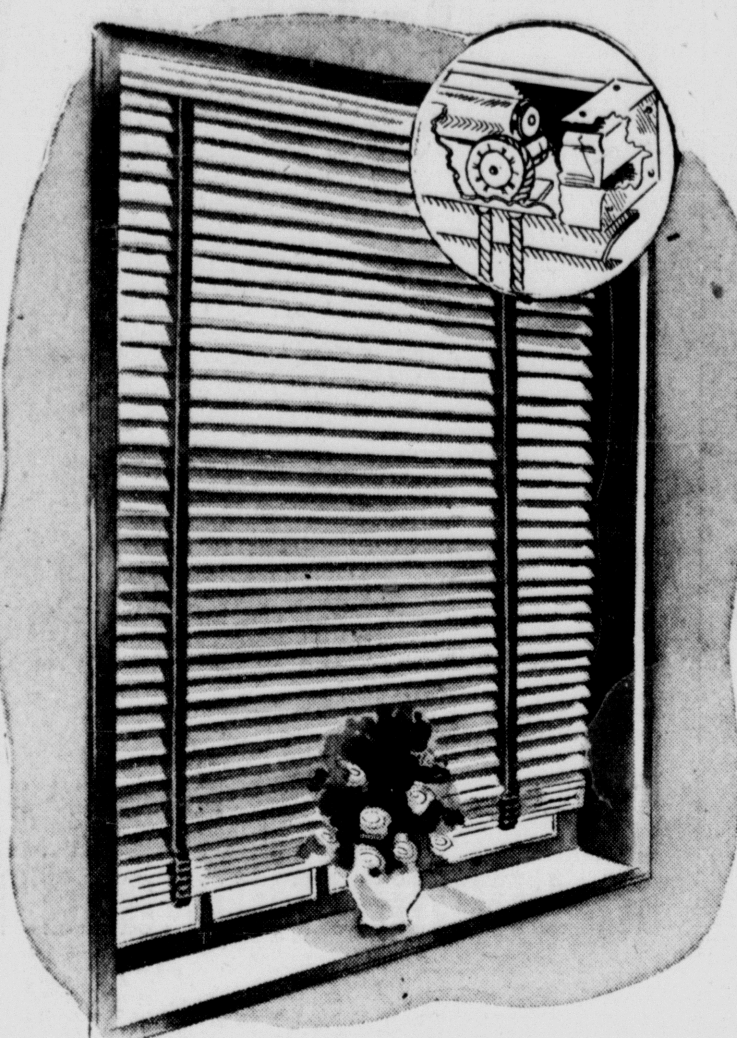

HARRISBURG, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Two Democratic senators want the State to lower the voting age from 21 to 18.

Sens. Elmer J. Holland, Allegheny, and William J. Lane, Washington, proposed an amendment to the state constitution to allow any person who has been a citizen for at least a month, a state resident for one year, and lived in the election district for at least two months the right to vote at all elections at the age of 18.

Says Trade In Europe Is Showing Increase

By WILLIAM KERWIN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—A commerce department official said today that trade between Marshall Plan countries and Communist-dominated eastern Europe is increasing "moderately."

At the same time, he reported "complaints" behind the iron curtain over the inability of several satellite nations to meet production levels for export to other countries in the Soviet bloc.

The official is Henry Chalmers, a consultant on commercial policy in the department. He made his observations in an article in the current issue of Foreign Commerce Weekly.

Trade between the East and West in Europe has been estimated at two billion dollars during the present fiscal year, ending next June 30. Officials figure that about one billion dollars worth of materials is coming out of the Soviet sphere while another one billion is going in from the West. Chalmers said:

Below Pre-War Level
"While East-West trade in Europe is still well below the pre-war level, such trade data as are available for 1948 indicate a continuing moderately upward trend in the share of western Europe in imports derived from eastern Europe."

In fact, he said that spokesmen for the Czech, Polish and eastern European governments "reiterated during the year their desire to expand their trade with the west."

Chalmers said that grumbling in eastern Europe over trade deficits already has been heard "from several sources." He said this suggests that "possibly more has been undertaken in some of these agreements between Russia and the other eastern European countries than is warranted by their respective productive capacities."

The official said that Russia negotiated the trade agreements with her satellites following the decision not to participate in the European recovery program.

He declared that the agreements are designed for the long-term orientation of their economies toward the Soviet Union," and added: "Despite the announced intention of various countries of eastern Europe to orient their economies more closely eastward for the long run, they continued and apparently even intensified their efforts during 1948 to negotiate agreement with the countries of western Europe, including western Germany, in order to obtain supplies of various classes of materials and equipment traditionally obtained from those areas."

Chalmers cited as an "interesting feature" the arrangement by which Russia agreed to facilitate delivery on steel to Denmark and the Netherlands for ships which the Russians desire. This also was the case with Italy which was given necessary raw materials to make electrical equipment and other manufactures for Russian use.

Bust Of Washington Will Go To Israel

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Abust of George Washington, the "father of the U. S.," was entrusted to a 43-ton delegation Monday for presentation to the "father" of Israel, President Chaim Weizmann.

The committee plans to leave for Europe and then Israel later today.

The presentation was made at New York's City Hall by Acting Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, who is managing the city while Mayor William O'Dwyer is on a vacation.

The bust is considered the most accurate reproduction of the famous head of Washington which was sculptured by Frenchman Jean Antoine Houdon in 1785. The black marble base plate says:

"George Washington, first president of the United States. Presented to Dr. Chaim Weizmann, first president of Israel, by the United Jewish appeal on behalf of the American Jewish community."

Export Controls On Meat Are Tightened

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—(INS)—The government Monday tightened export controls over all meat and meat products because of a drop in domestic supplies.

The Commerce department took the following action, effective March 4:

1. Banned all unlicensed meat shipments in bulk quantities by all such shipments henceforth be relief agencies, and ordered that licensed by its export control section.

2. Drastically reduced the amount of meat products which may be shipped commercially without a license.

Previously, exporters have been able to export any amount of meat products without a license as long as the total value of each item did not exceed $5.

Under today's order, exporters may ship only $3 worth of meat without license and the number of such shipments are restricted.

Ask Home Builders For United Front

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Edward R. Carr, of Washington, D.C., past president of the National Association of Home Builders, Monday called on the nation's home builders to form a united front to help solve housing problems.

He delivered the keynote address at the fifth annual convention and exposition of the association at Chicago.

Carr said that the nation's most critical housing needs have already been met. But he added that a big job still remains to be done on economy housing.

To accomplish this, he suggested four-way teamwork on behalf of labor, government, mortgage bankers and home builders.

He said that each has an equal responsibility and all must cooperate fully to successfully fulfill the demand for more lower cost housing.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF
Benny Goodman, rehearsing for one of his occasional classical recitals with conductor Tom Scherman, inadvertently addressed the latter as "Mr. Stokowski." "Golly, I'm sorry, Mr. Scherman," he hastened to apologize. "To get square you can call me Harry James."

J. P. McEvoy, covering a big story, was rooming with a correspondent who kept him awake by moaning and tossing in his bed. "What's matter?" demanded McEvoy. "I promised to pay the INS man next door the hundred dollars I owe him first thing in the morning," explained the roommate, "and I haven't got it."

McEvoy went to the window and hollered "Hey, Considine, wake up." Considine appeared rubbing his eyes and grumbled, "What's up?" McEvoy explained, "I just want to tell you my friend here can't pay you that $100 tomorrow. He hasn't got it." Then he shut the window and said, "Go to sleep, pal. Now Considine can worry."

Makes Accusations Against Americans

Woman In Russia Who Renounced U. S. Citizenship Credited With Making Charges
By NATALIA RENE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Feb. 22.—Annabell Bucar, a former employee of the American embassy in Moscow who resigned and renounced her citizenship, accused U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith and other ex-employees today of espionage, black-marketing, intrigue and intimidation.

The 34-year-old woman, daughter of a Clairton, Pa., farmer who disowned her after she married a Russian, made her charges in a Russian-language book called "The Truth About American Diplomats."

Widely circulated through Soviet propaganda outlets, the book accused Smith, chief of staff to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower during World War II, of sharing in an alleged orgy of currency speculation by other embassy employees.

Announcement of Miss Bucar's book was made only a short while after the Soviet news agency Tass said American authoress Dr. Anna Louise Strong was deported from Russia yesterday. She was charged with "espionage and subversive activities". Her immediate destination was not revealed.

The Duke of Wellington, with a purchased commission, became a lieutenant-colonel in the English army at the age of 22.

Says; Outstanding Policies

Corporate obligations purchased by the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States last year provided an average yield of 3.18% against a corresponding yield of 2.81% in 1947. Thomas I. Parkinson, president, reported yesterday at the annual meeting of directors.

On all its assets the Society earned a net rate of 2.95% in 1948, against 2.79% in 1947.

Mr. Parkinson explained also that the net investment return on the Society's Clinton Hill housing project in Brooklyn, containing 1,160 apartments, was 4.48% during the year.

Another housing project, the Fordham Hill Housing Development, is now under construction. All nine buildings in this development are expected to be completed early in 1950.

Equitable, Mr. Parkinson declared, had policies outstanding at the end of 1948 calling for more than $13 billion of life insurance, a record total. New business written during the year exceeded $984,029,297.

Assets at the year-end were at a record total of $4,883 million, a gain of $384,600,000 over 1947.

Says Pact Nations Not Committed To Military Obligations By Alliance

By CHARLES A. SMITH
LONDON, Feb. 22.—Minister of State Hector McNeil said Monday that no government participating in the proposed North Atlantic defense pact has committed itself to any military obligations.
McNeil made the statement in the House of Commons as Britain and other European capitals buzzed with activity relating to the Atlantic pact and the newly proposed Mediterranean alliance.
In Oslo, Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvard Lange denied reports he returned "empty-handed"
from talks with American and British leaders about Norway
joining the Atlantic pact.
Lane said flatly Norway "cannot accept extension of Swedish neutrality. We lost our faith in neutrality from 1940 to 1945."
Greek Foreign Minister Con-

stantine Tsaldaris conferred in London with Foreign Secretary
Bevin, who assured him that despite Britain's interest in forging closer links with Atlantic nations it also still is deeply interested in Greece and the Mediterranean.
McNeil was asked by a member of parliament for assurance that Britain would not promise military aid unless it is pledged by all signatories to the pact.
It was then that the minister of state replied that no government covered by the treaty has yet committed itself to such obligations.
U. S. congressional leaders in Washington have been especially zealous that no pact should abrogate the constitutional power of Congress alone to declare war.
The London Daily Graphic, in commenting on the momentous discussions now going on in various European capitals said they mark for Norway the beginning of one of that country's most historic weeks.

The Norwegian labor party last night overwhelmingly voted to support the government's decision to join the Atlantic pact despite her neighbor Sweden's opposition to this course.
Swedish officials have predicted that Russia will move to Sweden's borders by occupying Finland if Norway joins the western alliance.
In Paris, diplomatic circles said that Greek Foreign Minister Tsal-daris favors a pro-British Mediterranean alliance based on Rome,
Cairo and Ankara. France favors
Italy's inclusion in the Atlantic group.

The Moscow radio, meantime, has announced that Russia has been "compelled" to increase her military strength because "wild plans of Anglo-American ruling circles are creating all kinds of military alliances and blocs aimed against Russia and the people's democracies."

The Moscow radio earlier reported "mass meetings" in Norway against that country aligning herself with the Atlantic group.
But reports direct from Norway did not bear this out. Parliamentary leaders were strongly in favor of such a course for Norway.

Blue Book Burglar Will Face Further Police Questioning

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Feb. 22.
—(INS)—Gerard Graham Dennis, handsome "blue book burglar,"
who allegedly netted $1,000,000 in gems and furs during a two-year transcontinental crime career, faces further questioning today by police officials from several cities.
The 29-year-old Canadian admitted that he "pulled a number of jobs" in southern California when questioned by the first of more than 20 police officials and federal agents yesterday.
Time was too short for most of the visiting police officials to question Dennis, and they were invited by Westchester County District Attorney George M. Fanelli to return today.
The society "raffles" admitted to Detective Captain Emmet Jones of Los Angeles that he had participated in a number of gem thefts in California, but declined to be specific.

Rotarians Hear Dr. W. E. Flannery

Local Doctor Tells Why Socialized Medicine Bill Should Not Pass

New Castle Rotary club members heard Dr. W. E. Flannery, representing the Lawrence County Medical society, enumerate the reasons why socialized medicine should not be put into force in this country, as proposed under legislation which is now before congress.
Dr. Flannery, who spoke on the subject before other clubs, enumerated the progress which has been made in medicine down through the years, largely through free enterprise, which he felt would be stifled by the bill, inasmuch as no provisions have been made for research.

He also stated that the experience of socialized medicine in other countries would add another bureau, which would have to be managed by a million and a half workers, and that the cost would far exceed the voluntary hospitalization plan now in force.

He was of the opinion that the voluntary plan which is now spreading throughout the country is far preferable and less costly.
After his talk, he answered a number of questions on the matter.

New Castle And Ellwood End Section Three Schedule Here Tonight

New Castle Seeks Tenth Win Of Year

New Castle High basketball team reaches the end of another floor campaign tonight.

A determined Ellwood City High Wolverine team, bent on avenging the 43 to 40 defeat handed them by the New Castle five at Ellwood earlier in the season will provide the opposition. The junior varsities of both schools will play the prelim at 7 o'clock.

No doubt a packed gym will greet the schoolboys as they prepare to windup the 1948-49 schedule. There is a great deal of friendly rivalry between the two schools, in all manner of sports.

Seven In Final Game
Tonight will mark the end of the high school basketball careers for seven young stars—Don Piccirilli, Ben Haines, Phil Conti, Tony Clarella, Dick Sampson, Darrell Shoval, and Tom Clarke. Coach George Thomas will have as a nucleus for his 1949-50 team, Don Reed, scoring leader in Section Three, Dick Lewis, Ray Latsko, John Sansone, Don Leiberger, William Shewman, William Cobau, Mitchell Charles, Mike Carbone, Charles McDevitt, and Glenn McGary.

New Castle will be after its tenth win of the year tonight, against ten defeats. A victory tonight will mean a finish of .500 for the 1948-49 season.

Reed Top Scorer
Coach Ted Wallace has perfected a defense to try and stop Reed tonight. It will be interesting to see how young Reed fares against the Ellwood defense. Reed has a total of 202 points in Section Three.

Both New Castle and Ellwood have identical Section Three records, three wins and eight defeats. The loser tonight will repose in the league cellar.

New Castle's nine charming young cheerleaders will be on hand to "pep" the boys up. It will be the final appearance for the girls as high school cheerleaders. They have performed well and deserve a big hand.

Missed Spares Trip Chicagoans

Ned Day Rolls 617 Series, But Buddy Bomar Misses Important Spares

ATLANTIC CITY, Feb. 22.—(INS)—The widely heralded Tavern Poles of Chicago, striving for first place in the five-man event at the 46th annual American Bowling Congress championships last night, settled for 2359 total and second place.

In failing by 14 pins to catch the front-running Angels Grill team of Hershey, Pa., who rolled 2873 last Thursday, the Tavern Poles, featuring the nationally-known Ned Day, lost their chance in the final game by missed spares, two by Captain Buddy Bomar, bowler of the year in 1947.

Day rolled games of 206, 187, 224 for a total of 617 and a good start in his attempt to regain his 1948 championship in the all-events division which he won last year with 1979. Day, along with his teammates, will bowl in the doubles and singles events today.

Although failing to move among the first ten in the team event, the Voss Beltin & Specialty Co. of Chicago, Ill., rolling across alleys with the Poles, set a good pace for their better known Windy City team.

They scored games of 870, 1000, 931 for a 2801 series. John Maslana of the Voss team rolled a 275 second game, third highest rolled in any event in the ten-day-old tournament.

Titans-Thiel Clash Tonight

Dick Fuhrer Sparks Titans At Forward Along With Bruce Wagner

Thiel college basketballers will be seeking to accomplish what collegiate teams have been trying to do since 1942 when they line up against the Towering Titans of Westminster college tonight—that is, to defeat the Titans on their home court. Not since Duquesne's Iron Dukes nipped Westminster, 38-36, seven years ago has the Westminster victory bell failed to ring after a Titan home game.

The Titans and Tomcats first clashed this season three weeks ago tonight at Thiel. Westminster copped that encounter, 85-75, in a thriller. But since then the Lutherans have rebounded. Recent wins include an upset over the supposedly strong Plaid of Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh. However, the Titans have been busy also.

Fuhrer Provides Spark
A newcomer to the starting lineup, Dick Fuhrer of East Brady, sparked Westminster to wins last week over two of the tri-state's better college fives. Fuhrer has justified Coach Grover Washbaugh's faith in him by tallying ten points in the Titan win over W. and J. and 13 tallies as the Blue and White edged Waynesburg Saturday night.

Fuhrer will team with Bruce Wagner at the forward posts while Chet Dembinski will be in the center slot for the Titans. Colorful Don "Ozark" McCullough, who has scored 32 points in the last two games, and Jackie Jones will be at the guard positions.

Larry MacPhail Back In Headlines
NAPLES, Fla., Feb. 22.—(INS)—Former Baseball Mogul Larry MacPhail, who has been in tussles with a lot of people in his time, today was in one with the manager—or rather former manager—of the beach club MacPhail operates at Naples, Fla.

Richard S. Butler said he quit MacPhail's employ after the latter called him a "fighting name." He said he took a punch at the ex-head of the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees and that MacPhail swung back.

Bystanders separated the pair and neither man was injured in the scuffle. MacPhail refused to comment on Butler's version of the imbroglio.

COUNTY LEAGUERS MEET WEDNESDAY

The annual mid-winter "pow-wow" of the Lawrence county baseball league will take place at The Castleton hotel at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening in the form of a dinner-meeting. President Alec Samuels will preside.

A regular hot-stove session will be held with the teams planning ahead to the coming 1949 season. All teams in the 1948 league will have representatives present. All of the league officers will also be present.

"Y" JUNIOR CAGE TOURNAMENT ENTRIES DUE MARCH FIRST

Entry blanks for all teams participating in the third annual junior gold medal basketball tournament at the "Y" must be turned in by March 1. It was reiterated today by Harold Pears, "Y" physical director.

This year's tournament will be limited to 16 teams and play will start on March 11. According to Pears, contracts have been coming in rapidly the last few days and all teams in an age group under 19 years are urged to submit their contracts as soon as possible.

City-County Series Set Up

Elks Will Clash With Ellwood VFW At Ellwood Wednesday, Winner Meets East Brook

There will be a champion crowned Saturday night in the city-county basketball league. Just who it will be, will be determined in two games set for this week.

Wednesday night the first elimination game will find Coach George "Chick" Davies' Patterson and his high-flying Elks five at Ellwood City Shelby floor to battle the Ellwood VFW. The winner of the Ellwood-Elks game will play the East Brook Boosters Saturday at Washington High gym, at 8:15 o'clock. The game at Ellwood will start at 8 o'clock.

The eliminations were decided on at a meeting at the Elks last night. East Brook drew the bye. The three teams finished the league season tied with nine wins and three defeats. It was announced by President Arthur Mittler.

Levine-Hunter Tangle Tonight

CLEVELAND, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Cleveland's first fight show of 1949 will be staged within the rope of the Arena tonight with a bout between Artie Levine and Chuck Hunter heading the card.

Levine, who was a strong favorite when he was kayoed in his battle with Hunter in May, 1947, enters tonight's match with a string of six successive knockout wins.

Hunter, on the other hand, has made only one start since he upset the odds-on Steve Beltoise last spring and in that one he was subdued by Nick Baronem. The Hunter-Levine match is one of four 10-rounders.

K. Pulaski Battles St. George Tonight

K. Pulaski's "Big Five," having added additional strength to their roster, seek their second straight win tonight at K.P. hall when they battle St. George of the class "A" Church league.

Score Is 4-4 Deadlock At Pittsburgh, Same Teams Play At Arena Here Sunday

The New Castle Yellowjackets roller-hockey team went to Pittsburgh last night and tied the Flamingo Rockets 4-4 in a wild and woolly ball game that saw many thrilling shots made.

The Flamingo team will play at the Arena here Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. It is sure to be a rip-roaring battle here, as New Castle fights to retain first place in the league.

Scoring for the Yellowjackets last night were Coach Lee Stoops two goals and Angelo Janccone and Ben Price one each.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

INFORMATIVE LETTER
3324 W. 108th Street,
Inglewood, Cal., Feb. 17, 1949

Here & There In Sports' Land.

Dear Sir:

Am shipping you a line to let you know I am fine, the weather is swell, and plenty hot, although it was very cool, and rained hard several days ago. The drainage is bad and water remains on thoroughfares for some time.

I met Emmett Rocco yesterday. He looks good and weighs 220. He referees fights at South Gate Arena, every week, and said to say "Hello" to you. Jimmie Dunn is at Las Vegas, not yet having come to Los Angeles. I met Lucy Welsh (formerly of Akron). He has a hotel in L. A.

I am "working out" every day. It costs $2.50 per month to train and obtain a locker. There are plenty of Mexicans and colored boys "working out". It costs spectators 20 cents to watch fighters train.

It is difficult to obtain a boxing license here. You actually receive a stiff physical examination, and it costs $7.50, which includes a chest X-ray. A boxing license costs $5.50. They take your fingerprints and record a list of your last 25 fights.

I am fighting a week Tuesday (next Tuesday) at the Los Angeles Olympia club. Should I win a couple of fights, I will get a chance to fight a main "go". Everyone here seems to think I have a good chance to beat any middleweight here. I get plenty of boxing every day, and that is more than I got at home (New Castle).

I saw Max Baer. He looks good. There are plenty of fellows here from Pittsburgh and some well known "pugs", too. Chalky Wright, from whom Willie Pep won the title (featherweight) is now 42 years old, and is training "guys". So is Gorilla Jones, of Akron. There are plenty of fighters here, weighing 147, downward.

They start training at noon, and "work" until 9 p. m. They pay the fighters good here. I am getting $200 for a six round semi-final, and that isn't bad. I sure hope I can make out for a while and then call it "quits" before it is too late.

At present, there is no work out here, and I do mean, no work. It is a slump, and will be until about April. All the plants have from one-third to two-thirds of their employees laid off, and some places are closed down.

The only places open here is aircraft, and they want all the experienced men they can obtain. There are numerous "plant" factories here. Food is "dirt cheap", and I do not mean, maybe. Housing is bad, and some rents are cheap and others expensive. They claim out here that in a year from now you will be able to get a place for a song and a dance.

There are plenty of people out here. You drive for miles and get no place. It requires plenty of gasoline and brakes. You can get arrested for hit and run if you strike animals, such as dogs and cats. Don't think for one minute you do not have to obey the law. They put the "grab" on you for everything you do wrong.

I get a "kick" out of the way they have stations fixed here. They are big and have from 12 to 20 pumps located in rows. You drive in and serve yourself. It is cheaper. They have girls on roller skates who skate around your car and collect money. It really is odd.

The people are getting wise now. They buy their whisky in a drug store and go home and drink it. You get it any place, even in a grocery store.

I never saw so many "bums" on "Skid Row" in all my life. A "bum" asked me for $5.00, for a cup of coffee. I said: "Coffee is only a nickel". He put his thumbs in his shirt and replied: "Yeah, but you don't meet to go in there looking like this, do you?"

I hope this letter finds everybody "in the pink". I ran into bad weather coming out and wrecked my car in Texas. Our little son who was born just before I left is already "shadow boxing".

With kind regards, from,

Your friend

JACK BIDDLE, Middleweight Boxer.

P.S.: Television is great out here. Almost everybody has one.

WES DAVY WRITES

Fort Worth, Fla., Feb. 18, 1949

Here & There In Sports' Land.

Dear Sir:

Just a line to thank you for the courtesies extended to the writer. Mr. R. C. Young, Dr. David Young's father and I are visiting here in Florida. Will be home some time next week. Have visited J. Audley Boak, at Titusville and Ralph Craig at West Palm Beach. Will see Bill Milson at Tavernier Key, then go to Key West, several other cities, then to New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Natchez, and Memphis where we hope to see some old friends. Weather is ideal but so far haven't been fishing.

As ever,

WES DAVY.

And now that Rizleri Ronzi, the rugged Youngstown heavyweight, has signed to fight the lusive Art Williams of Pittsburgh, in a heavyweight fracas March 2, in The Arena, fans are asking: "Who'll win? The slugger or boxer?" Art battled Elkins Brothers and lost by a technical knockout when Williams tired, and was taking a "lacing". However, Brothers failed to get a clean shot at Art and failed to dump him for a count. Ronzi doesn't hit as hard as Brothers, but is as aggressive. Whether or not Williams can outbox and step around Ronzi remains to be seen. However, there's one thing certain. He'll have to be in condition to keep Ronzi from winning. . . Tomorrow night at 7:30 p. m. 12 to 18 year olds who want to learn to tie flies should be at Union Township school at 7:30 promptly, where "Pat" Patterson will demonstrate the various techniques, and display movies of the art. It is part of the Youth Conservation movement of the Sportsmen's clubs.

About five per cent of all eggs produced are broken or become inedible on their way from producer to consumer, farm experts estimate.

For the 11th time since 1924, the championship of the Intercollegiate Boxing association will be held at Penn State March 11-12.

Gorgeous George To Meet Dusek

New Perfumed And Marcelled 'Rassler Will Wrestle Dusek In New York City

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Wrestling, the black sheep, will return to the sports fold at Madison Square Garden tonight, with a new formula.

Years ago, wrestling went over in a big way at the Garden under the astute direction of the late Jack Curley, the greatest showman of them all. The familiar formula was the sudden climax in which the handsome collegian, apparently on the brink of disaster after being subjected to all manner of fouls, would pin the villain with breathtaking swiftness.

Later, ring melees were organized, and policemen called upon to intervene, all to what the jaded appetites of the customers. When the so-called sport finally was laughed out of the Garden a dozen years ago, it was thought that the bottom of the entertainment barrel had been scraped.

New Technique

A new technique has been developed subsequently, however, by a former third-rate grunt and growler who now styles himself Gorgeous George. This marcelled mauler from Hollywood has a valet who sprays George with perfume in the ring, and trims the mighty man's toenails. Flower girls throw petals in his path when he arrived in New York Saturday.

This fabulous character is paired with Ernie Dusek, the good old rough and ready, in tonight's feature.

Another Award

Given DiMaggio

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—(INS)—Outfielder Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees added another award to his big bag of trophies today.

The Sports Broadcasters association presented the Clipper with the Graham McNamee Memorial Award. The plaque is given annually to the person who has contributed most to sports over the year.

It has been determined that the right rear tire on an automobile averages more punctures and blowouts than any other.

Legion Auxiliary Defense Program

Special Program Is Presented At Legion Home On Monday Evening

Ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary held their annual national defense program, Monday evening, in the Legion home. The program was preceded by a 6:30 dinner at tables appointed in a patriotic motif in keeping with George Washington's birthday.

The meeting opened with the singing of "Star Spangled Banner," after which the chaplain, Miss Lillian Hartman gave the invocation.

Mrs. Thomas Boyle acted as toastmistress in the absence of Mrs. Elizabeth Miller, who is ill. Mrs. Boyle introduced the president, Mrs. Ethel Murphy, who welcomed the group. She then introduced several special guests, including: Mrs. D. T. Brown, western director; Mrs. B. Malcomson, council president of the district; Mrs. Arthur Gossard, national security chairman, and Mrs. Katherine Mastusak, membership chairman.

Mrs. Boyle then introduced a group of young boys who sang and played several numbers including "You Can't Be True Dear," "Slow Boat To China" and "Beautiful Ohio." The boys in this group are Jerry Pander, the leader, Dick Bradford, Charles Sinutko and Bob Kiviat.

Carol Young was then introduced. She gave several readings, including "Mailing the Letter".

The speaker for the evening was Rev. James A. Gaiser, pastor of the First Methodist church, who spoke on national defense. He spoke of the hardships and sufferings now so prevalent in European countries and how the children are still suffering from fear. He gave first hand information on the conditions in Europe, having traveled throughout those countries, this past summer. His main thought stressed the necessity of training the youths of America to be strong, healthy and happy in order that fear may never grip them.

The group of young boys who entertained earlier in the program closed the meeting with the singing of "Now Is the Hour". Mrs. Maud Forrester was chairlady in charge of all dinner and program arrangements, and Mrs. Eleanor Wilkens was in charge of decorations.

The number of deaths of mothers during childbirth is now one-fifth of what it was 20 years ago.

Chicago Interests Make Louis Offer For June Battle

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—(INS)—The Cook County Democratic committee, personified perhaps unofficially by Ward Committeeman J. T. Plunkett, has come up with a new offer to Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis for a title defense in Chicago next June.

The latest offer, transmitted by Plunkett yesterday to Louis' attorney, Truman Gibson, guarantees:

- $50,000 upon the signing of contracts; another $50,000 within 90 days thereafter.
- Minimum of $250,000 or 50 per cent of the gross gate less taxes.
- 45 per cent of radio and motion picture rights; 50 per cent of television.

City Leases Land For Thoroughfare

Will Provide Route Between East Washington And Produce Streets

OTHER ACTION IN COUNCIL SESSION

City Council on Monday adopted the Alexander ordinance by which the city leases from James A. and Elizabeth McCormick 20 feet of ground, which added to the city's 20 feet, will make Boyles alley, between East Washington and Produce streets, a 40-foot thoroughfare. The plot is commonly known as the P & L E Driveway. City pays a fee of $1 annually for the lease, which is good for 10 years.

Michael Fisher offered the city $100 for Lot 115, Official Survey 24, in East Brook street. The city has no municipal use for the lot, it was reported. The bid was sent to committee.

Mayor's Traffic Study committee invited council to dine with them and discuss the feasibility of forming a trained traffic platoon system for the express purpose of enforcing traffic regulations, the third Thursday, this month. The request was not received until Monday.

Property Director Joseph D'Alexander reported to council that the city had insured with McBride & Shannon firm, the new city building against fire. His action was confirmed.

George D. Reid Insurance agency requested a renewal of the city's public liability and property insurance at a total premium of $1,459.39, which would provide for $10,000, $25,000 public liability and a $5,000 limit on property damage.

Council adopted the Gibson ordinance making the water course, and enclosing the same, in the rear of the Croton M. E. church a portion of the city's storm sewer system.

Solons referred for councilmanic view, the request of the Ludwig company to install 10 x 25 foot panel boards at 300 and 310 Mahoning avenue; 1135 Butler avenue, at Liberty street and Montgomery avenues and also at 402 Sampson street.
